Over the decades, the sorority has grown into a global organization with over 200,000 members committed to initiatives such as education, economic development, health, political awareness, and international outreach.

The sorority's recruitment process is designed to uphold its standards of integrity, scholarship, and service. Unlike some organizations that focus primarily on social events, Delta Sigma Theta emphasizes a comprehensive assessment of candidates' leadership capabilities, community involvement, academic achievement, and alignment with its mission.

The Core Values and Expectations for Prospective Members

Candidates are expected to embody the sorority's five interrelated point values:

- Sisterhood
- Scholarship
- Service-Leadership
- Social Action
- Community Service

The recruitment process aims to identify individuals who demonstrate a genuine commitment to these principles, possess strong character, and show potential for future leadership roles within the organization.

The Recruitment Process: From Interest to Membership

Initial Contact and Information Gathering

The journey toward a Delta Sigma Theta membership begins with expressing interest—often through attending informational sessions hosted by the university's chapter or the national organization. These sessions serve to familiarize prospective members with the sorority's history, programs, and expectations.

Important steps include:

- Attending informational meetings
- Participating in campus activities related to DST
- Engaging with current members to learn about the organization's culture

The Formal Recruitment (Rush) Period

At many campuses, the formal recruitment process—commonly called "rush"—is a structured period during which chapters meet potential candidates through a series of events. This phase allows members to evaluate applicants based on their interactions, presentation, and compatibility with the sorority's values.

Typical rush activities include:

- Open House events
- Sisterhood mixers
- Informational sessions
- Interviews and individual interactions

The culmination of the recruitment process often involves a series of interviews, among which the rush interview holds particular significance.
