Implementation Tips:

- Create a mood chart with faces expressing a range of emotions: happy, sad, angry, scared, surprised, calm, etc.
- Use bright colors and clear labels to attract attention.

- Encourage children to share similar experiences from their own lives.
- Use story characters' moods as a springboard for class activities.

Example Titles:

- The Feelings Book by Todd Parr
- Glad Monster, Sad Monster by Ed Emberley

Creating a Supportive Classroom Environment

Effective mood education extends beyond activities; it hinges on creating an emotionally safe space where children feel comfortable expressing their feelings.

- Model Emotional Openness

Teachers serve as role models by openly sharing their own feelings in appropriate ways. For example, saying, "I'm feeling a bit tired today, but I'll try to stay positive," demonstrates honesty and emotional transparency.

- Establish Routine Check-Ins

Regularly ask students how they're feeling through verbal or visual methods. This routine normalizes emotional expression and helps identify mood shifts early.

- Celebrate Emotional Diversity

Acknowledge that all feelings are valid. When children express emotions like frustration or sadness, validate their experiences rather than dismissing them.

Focus on one mood each day or week, exploring it in depth through discussions, stories, and activities. This approach fosters a deeper understanding of specific feelings.

Integrating Mood Education with Broader Social-Emotional Learning (SEL)
